Aim

To design and develop the Consultation (booking) page of the Zen Spaces Interior Design Studio website using HTML5 form elements and CSS3, with a variety of input types, built-in validation attributes and a styled layout, and to link it with the Home, Gallery, Projects, About Us and Contact pages of the same website.

Description

HTML form: The <form> element collects the details of a customer who wants to book a design consultation. The form is divided into three section boxes (Your Details, Your Design Project and Additional Information), and the labels and fields inside each box are aligned using a two-column table.

Input types: The type attribute of <input> selects the kind of control: text, email, password, tel, number, date, month, time, url, search, color, range, file, radio and checkbox. Each type gives the browser a suitable keyboard or picker, for example a calendar for date, a colour chooser for color and a slider for range. <select> with <option> gives drop-down lists, <textarea> gives a multi-line address box, and <input list> with <datalist> offers suggestions while still allowing the user to type a new style.

Validation and helper attributes: The required attribute stops the form from being submitted when the name, email, password or consent check box is empty, and type="email" and type="url" check the format of the value. min and max limit the number of years to 0–100 and the project size slider to 1–10. placeholder shows a sample value inside an empty field, and name="ownership" groups the radio buttons so that only one can be chosen.

Styling the form with CSS3: form.css gives the form container a fixed width, centred with margin: 30px auto, a border, a gold left border, border-radius and box-shadow so it looks like a card. One grouped attribute selector (.consultation-form input[type="text"], input[type="email"], select, textarea and so on) applies the same width, padding, border, background and font to every text-like field, and resize: vertical lets the address box grow only in height. The section boxes have a light background, the section titles are bold, and the Request Consultation button has its own colour with a darker-to-lighter :hover effect.

Home page and other pages: home.html contains the navigation bar, a hero section, a welcome text, a projects table, definition, ordered and unordered lists for the services, and the contact links. Gallery, Projects, About Us and Contact pages use the same navigation bar, with the .current-page class highlighting the open page.

External stylesheets and layout: The CSS is divided by purpose: base.css (page-wide defaults such as box-sizing and fonts), navbar.css (a flexbox navigation bar with a hover colour), layout.css (card sections and table styles) and gallery.css (a CSS Grid of two equal columns for the pictures).

Each page links only the files it needs with <link rel="stylesheet">, so the same green and beige theme is shared by all pages.

Procedure:

1. Select the website theme: an Interior Design Studio named Zen Spaces with the pages Home, Gallery, Projects, About Us, Contact and Consultation.
2. Create a folder Expt4 with the sub-folders pages, styles and images, and place the four interior pictures in the images folder.
3. Create styles/base.css, styles/navbar.css and styles/layout.css for the common fonts, colours, navigation bar, cards and tables used by every page.
4. Create pages/form.html with the navigation bar and a form container holding a heading and a short introduction.
5. Inside the form, add the section box Your Details with a table of fields: text (required), text with placeholder, email, password, tel, number (min and max), date and radio buttons.
6. Add the section box Your Design Project with the drop-down lists for Property Type and Design Service, the Preferred Style field with a datalist and the Inspiration Link url field.
7. Add the section box Additional Information with check boxes, a file upload, a search field, month, time, colour and range inputs, the address textarea and the required consent check box.
8. Add the Request Consultation submit button, then create styles/form.css to style the container, section boxes, table cells, all the input types, the textarea and the button.
9. Create home.html with the hero section, welcome text, projects table, lists of services and contact links, and link it to the Consultation page from the navigation bar.
10. Create pages/gallery.html (with styles/gallery.css), pages/about-us.html, pages/contact.html and pages/projects.html using the same navigation bar.
11. Open the Consultation page in a browser, fill in the fields and press the submit button to check the validation messages, and then check the navigation links of all pages.
12. Push the code to GitHub and host it using GitHub Pages to obtain the deployment link.
